NOW YOU KNOW

WHAT'S GRP?

The Gender-Responsive Procurement (GRP) model, is a model proposed by UN Women and the International Labour Organization, to promote women's empowerment and to help in achieving Sustainable Development Goals 5 and 8.

WHY GRP?

In India, women-led businesses constitute approximately 20.37% of the MSME industry. Yet, Women-led businesses in India encounter a multitude of obstacles, such as constrained capital accessibility, gender-based biases, and disparities in networking opportunities.

HOW DO WE HELP?

WOMENNOVATOR, LED BY FOUNDER TRIPTI SOMANI, HAS PLAYED A PIVOTAL ROLE IN ADVOCATING FOR A 3% PROCUREMENT POLICY FROM MSSES OWNED BY WOMEN, WITHIN THE OVERALL ANNUAL PROCUREMENT TARGET. BY TAKING ACTION TO IMPLEMENT THIS POLICY, WOMENNOVATOR IS DEMONSTRATING A COMMITMENT TO NOT ONLY SUGGEST BUT ALSO ACTIVELY PROMOTE GENDER-INCLUSIVE PROCUREMENT PRACTICES.

THE SUCCESS STORY OF LIJJAT PAPAD

SHRI MAHILA GRIHA UDYOG LIJJAT PAPAD, established in 1959, is one of the oldest Indian women's worker cooperatives that produces a variety of goods, including the very famous, Lijjat Papad. Founded by seven women from Mumbai, the cooperative aimed to generate income by utilizing their skills.

Over time, the company has grown significantly, now employing more than 40,000 individuals. Despite its expansion, the cooperative remains true to its original mission, which focuses on job creation, problem-solving, skill development, and the empowerment of women in the workforce.
